INTRODUCTION

The Context
First contested in 1927, The Ryder Cup has become one of the world’s greatest sporting contests. Every two years, 24 of the best players from Europe and the United States compete head-to-head in match play competition.

Drama, incredible golf, camaraderie and sportsmanship are served in equal measure, captivating an audience of millions around the world. Organised alternatively in the United States and Europe, The Ryder Cup enjoys prestige, exceeding that of even the sport’s Majors.

The Ryder Cup is named after the English businessman Samuel Ryder who donated the trophy. The event is jointly administered by the PGA of America and Ryder Cup Europe, the latter a joint venture of the European Tour, the PGA of Great Britain and Ireland, and the PGA of Europe. Ryder Cup Limited, which controls the hosting rights of The Ryder Cup when the event is played in Europe, will receive the Italy 2022 bid to host The Ryder Cup.

The 2018 Ryder Cup will be played on Continental Europe for only the second time in the event’s history, when the event is hosted at Le Golf National outside Paris. Along with Italy, the following countries are bidding for the chance to host the 2022 Ryder Cup: Austria, Germany and Spain, indicating that the 2022 edition of this historic event will again be hosted on the Continent.

All of the candidates are required to submit their bid before 30th April 2015.

Paul McGinley of Europe flies the flag for Ireland after being thrown into the lake after holing the winning putt in the final day singles of the 34th Ryder Cup matches at the De Vere Belfry in Sutton Coldfield, England, 2002.

Darron Clarke from Northern Ireland gets an emotional reception as he arrives at the first tee for the opening fourball session of the first day of the 2006 Ryder Cup, at the K Club in Straffan, Co Kildare, in the Republic of Ireland, 2006.

Martin Kaymer of Europe celebrates after making the putt that retained The Ryder Cup on the 18th green in the 39th Ryder Cup at Medinah Country Club, 2012. This putt completed a comeback affectionately known as “The Miracle of Medinah”.

US Ryder Cup team member Justin Leonard celebrates his putt against Jose Maria Olazabal of Spain on the 17th hole that clinched the victory for the US in the 33rd Ryder Cup at The Country Club in Brookline, Massachusetts, 1999.

Sam Torrance of the European team celebrates on the 18th after sinking the putt to secure the first victory for team Europe in The Ryder Cup; at the Belfry in Sutton Coldfield, England, 1985.
The Competition and History

The first official Ryder Cup took place in 1927 at Worcester Country Club, in Massachusetts, US, as a golf match contested between Great Britain and the United States. The home team won the first five contests, and when the competition resumed after the Second World War, American dominance continued until the Great Britain and Ireland team was extended to include continental Europe from 1979.

Since 1979, Europe has won ten times outright and retained the Cup once in a tied match, with seven American wins over this period. In addition to players from Great Britain and Ireland, the European team has included players from Belgium, Denmark, France, Germany, Italy, Spain and Sweden.

On all sides, some of the game’s greatest of all time have played in The Ryder Cup, including: Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Seve Ballesteros, Nick Faldo, Phil Mickelson, Tiger Woods, and many more.

To date, three Italian players have represented Europe in The Ryder Cup: Costantino Rocca, Edoardo Molinari, and Francesco Molinari, whose half point against Tiger Woods helped the historic comeback in 2012, known as “Miracle at Medinah”.

Future Competition Venues

The Ryder Cup is set to be held at the following venues:

- 2016: Hazeltine National Golf – Minnesota, USA

The Economic Impact of The Ryder Cup

The Ryder Cup delivers significant economic returns to the host region both through direct and indirect revenue sources. In 2014, over 250,000 fans from 96 countries visited Gleneagles for The Ryder Cup delivering economic return in a variety of ways. Direct revenues stem from various inevitabilities, including foreign capital of visitors, job creation, event hospitality, hotel bookings, airline tickets, event specific contracts. Additionally, the lasting benefits which The Ryder Cup can deliver are often categorised as indirect revenue, namely: promotion of the host region, lasting and repeat tourism, improvements to infrastructure, transformative affect on the golf industry, investment from global companies and sponsors.

While the 2014 Ryder Cup at Gleneagles delivered approximately £100m in revenue to Gleneagles and Scotland, FIG and the Italian stakeholders are looking to the 2012 event at Medinah Country Club, in Chicago, to better gauge success. The 2012 Ryder Cup delivered and estimated £130m in revenue to the local economy of urban and suburban Chicago. Similar to Medinah Country Club, Marco Simone Golf & Country Club sits on the edges of one of the world’s great metropolitan areas, Rome, a true European capital.

MOTIVATION TO BID

Italy's desire to host The Ryder Cup stems from a rich history of welcoming the world to its cities and shores. Italy possesses a desire to implement world class events such as The Ryder Cup to promote everything that is great about Italy. Italy will showcase innovation and forward thinking in a nation that is often referred to through historical context.

The motivation for the FIG bid, supported by Comitato Olimpico Nazionale Italiani (CONI), to host The Ryder Cup is led by the Four Cornerstones of Success. To maximise the potential success of the 2022 Ryder Cup, FIG has set objectives related to each of the Four Cornerstones of Success.

Golf Tourism Growth

Europe is awakening to the great opportunities to play golf in Italy. This awareness was enhanced in 2014, when the International Golf Travel Market was hosted in Italy. Hosting The Ryder Cup would elevate the country to a new level, enabling the country to showcase its varied, yet relatively unknown, golf offering.

A Sports Marketing Surveys report, conducted in 2014, revealed a healthy appetite for golf travel to Italy, with 31% of respondents from Great Britain & Ireland, 56% from France, 71% from Sweden and 76% from Germany declaring they would consider the country as a golf holiday destination in the next five years.

Additionally, Italy would be able to demonstrate the country to a new level, enabling the country to showcase its varied, yet relatively unknown, golf offering.

Brand Italy Positioning

FIG is delighted for the opportunity to bid for this truly incredible event. The opportunity to host The 2022 Ryder Cup is a truly unique and potentially transformative prospect for Italy. The Ryder Cup provides a world class event to showcase Italy and its event organisation skills to the world.

Italy 2022: "Four Cornerstones of Success"

Golf Participation Growth

Italy 2022 will transform golf participation in Italy by inspiring tens of thousands of people to be the next generation of great talent. Golf is a sport played by all ages and abilities; individuals continue to participate for decades. Italy 2022 believes that golf is effectively managed within Italy by FIG, but there is scope to improve further and certainly increase numbers across all levels of participation. The project shows how the golf market of Italy can benefit from initiatives dedicated to young players. This initiative will continue and be reinforced all along the path leading to The Ryder Cup.

Golf Performance and Play

In recent years FIG has developed a programme to find talented young athletes and create positive conditions for the players. Hosting the Ryder Cup would allow Italy to reinvigorate the country's Talent Identification Programme which has already proven success.

FIG, aware of having good golf technicians, invested time and effort toward the next generation of up-and-coming golfers. Given the positive results that were achieved following the first five years of operation, the structure of the Talent Identification Programme was bolstered, giving a new definition of “talent.” This definition includes technical sporting skill, but also takes into account personal attributes such as the ability to see a long term athletic path and other physical and mental characteristics.

In 2009 an Order of Merit was created to monitor results of athletes and to push competition. Matteo Manassero and now Renato Paratore are the results of the hard work and initiatives – illustrating focused Talent ID programming does work. The project shows how the golf market of Italy can benefit from initiatives dedicated to young players. This initiative will continue and be reinforced all along the path leading to The Ryder Cup.

All roads lead to Rome...

Italy 2022’s Ryder Cup journey is a dynamic one; beginning and ending in Rome. As Rome reaches out to the world, so does golf and The Ryder Cup to the ancient city with its host of benefits and positive change. In the same way that all roads once led from the Millenium Aureum, benefiting Rome and the Empire, The Ryder Cup and Italy will create a unique partnership that will become the benchmark for future major events.

I Iconic Rome

The venue will be enhanced but so will The Ryder Cup through the wholehearted support of Italy. Italy 2022 will link The Ryder Cup to one of the world's great cities in a way that the event has never been done before. Not only this but principal events within the framework of the Ryder Cup programme such as the Opening Ceremony, Year to Go, Gala Dinner and team functions can be held in iconic locations from the Colosseum to the Rome Cavalieri. Its Pan Zone will be in an ancient Piazza. In doing so it will promote Rome and the venue itself but importantly link The Ryder Cup Brand to a global phenomenon which is Rome and Italian Tourism.

X Past, Present and Future

Italy 2022 will tap into the history of ancient Rome to showcase spectacles that The Ryder Cup has never seen before with an Opening Ceremony in the Colosseum and a closing Ceremony in front of a medieval Castello. In between these periods it will infuse The Ryder Cup with everything that modern Italy stands for in terms of innovation, style and design. Finally it will leave behind as a true legacy a unique future for both Italian Sport and also The Ryder Cup itself through a unique partnership with the RCE.

IX Dolce Vita

Italy has given much to the world in art, culture and gastronomy; all this will be reflected and channelled through The Ryder Cup. Italy 2022 will be the ‘can’t miss’ event of the year as all golf fans hope to be in Rome to experience everything the City offers. It is a combination of passion with the way of life that is so strong in Italians in creating “La Dolce Vita” – the good life. Celebrating the film industry’s love affair with Rome, Italy 2022 will also capitalise on making this an attractive opportunity for all Hollywood stars who play golf once again. Via Appia

VIII Organisation

Italy 2022 will deliver a new benchmark for The Ryder Cup in terms of the quality of experience enjoyed by all its spectators and viewers, sponsors and media review. It will take the best parts of Italy to The Ryder Cup brand and event, making both stronger. In doing so it will benefit both Italy and the RCE as it proves to be the catalyst of hopefully a new era in major event staging in Italy.

III Connecting People

Italy 2022 will reach out across the Atlantic to the 12% of Americans that are of Italian descent and the large numbers of people from North America who study, work and visit the country for pleasure. This impact will not only be felt in numbers of North-Americans visiting The Ryder Cup, but also in the impact it will have on the North American market from a television perspective driven by iconic imagery of the Opening Ceremony in the Colosseum to the greatest players in the world with the backdrop of St Peter’s Dome.

II Brand Italy

Italy 2022 will provide a world class venue on the outskirts of one of the tourism capitals of the world with its accommodation facilities, infrastructure and experience hosting world class events to deliver a truly unforgettable Ryder Cup. In doing so it will reinforce The Ryder Cup brand beyond golf. It will do this with Italian hospitality and personality and everything that Brand Italy is associated with from wine, food, friendship, history, language, style, romance, passion, culture, art etc.

IV Golfing Legacy

Italy 2022 recognises that it speaks significantly about potential, but The 2022 Ryder Cup Match will have a transformative affect on the sport of golf in Italy. It will inspire the talent of now and the future to want to participate in their home nation but will also importantly create an inspirational-aspirational axis that will deliver growth across all levels of the game. The RCE can showcase how a single event can change the make-up and structure of a country's sport, and leave a fitting legacy for all.

V Environmental

Italy 2022 will engage with the environment in a way that no other golf event has ever done. It will create specific legacy outcomes for both the event, but also the City of Rome. Italian Golf can transform how Golf can be seen as a thought leader in environmental terms. In doing so it will place the RCE firmly at the forefront of both the event discussions and positive environmental impact and create new benchmarks for how Ryder Cup is viewed in this space.

VI Tourism

Italy 2022 will transform the golf tourism industry in Italy generating significant revenue investment for the Italian state. This will be done by working with the embassies and businesses that Italy has at its best. In doing so Italy 2022 will also impact positively The Ryder Cup brand and showcase The Ryder Cup’s ability to create dynamic change in a country with huge potential for this area of business.

VII Financial Success

Italy 2022 will be a financial success from the government backed guarantee, the sponsorship revenues raised by FIG and its partners and significant investment from corporate Italy including the Biagiotti family, owners of the venue. As such Italy is well positioned to deliver financial success in a market which craves major events, demonstrated by the €460 million of sponsorship revenues generated by Expo Milano 2015. This financial success will reflect positively on both Italy and the RCE and set a new benchmark for engagement with the event for future years.
